NEW BOOKS

Of the approximately 200 new books received by the Army Medical Library each month a few are being chosen, more or less at random, for brief mention here.

BEARD, HOWARD H. Creatine and creatinine metabolism. Brooklyn, N. Y., Chemical publishing co., 1943. 376 p.

An evaluation of the experimental evidence in this field which has been published in the sixteen years since the appearance of A. Hunter's monograph on creatine and creatinine. Due to the intimate relation of this and other metabolic processes the following topics are also discussed: carbohydrate metabolism, muscular contraction, physical fitness, nutritional muscular dystrophy, the vitamins, hormones, etc., and the creatine-creatinine metabolism in the myopathies and diseases of the heart.

COCA, ARTHUR F. Familial nonreaginic food-allergy. Springfield, Ill. [etc.], Charles C. Thomas, 1943. 160 p.

This is a monograph describing the author's investigations of a category of allergic disease having a characteristic symptomatology; absence of skin sensitizing reagins, a separate hereditary influence, and a regular accelerating effect upon the pulse rate. It has been possible in most instances to identify the culprit foods and other excitants by the pulse-rate criterion. The evidence supports the histamine theory of the allergic reaction. Familial nonreaginic food allergy affects a large proportion of the population and the dietary treatment controlled by pulse-rate should be of more than casual interest to the practitioner of general medicine.

FORD, E.B. Genetics for medical students. London, Methuen & co., 1942. 162 p.

A survey of human genetics based on experience gained during many years of teaching the subject to medical students. Particular attention is given to the chief principles, and the various inherited conditions have been chosen as illustrative instances.

HOFF, EBBE CURTIS & JOHN FARQUHAR FULTON. A bibliography of aviation medicine. Prepared for the Committee on aviation medicine, Division of medical sciences, National research council. Springfield, Ill. [etc.], Charles C. Thomas, 1942. 237 p.

A highly classified arrangement of 6,029 titles of papers published up to June 1, 1942, into thirteen principal divisions with numerous subheadings, which permit locating promptly the contributions pertaining to every phase of the subject.

LANGDALE-KELHAM, R. D., & GEORGE PERKINS. Amputations and artificial limbs. London, Oxford university press, 1942. 96 p.

Modern views on amputations have been epitomized in an effort to lessen the amount a medical student has to learn. Nothing of importance has been omitted, but everything superfluous has been rejected.

NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL. Division of medical sciences. Committee on surgery. Neurosurgery and thoracic surgery. Philadelphia and London, W. B. Saunders co., 1943. 310 p.

This is a compact presentation of the most recent and approved practice in this field for the benefit of those who, in the present emergency, may be faced with situations outside the particular specialty in which they are most proficient.

REHFUSS, MARTIN E. Indigestion, its diagnosis and management, with special reference to diet. Philadelphia and London, W. B. Saunders co., 1942. 556 p.

The lessons learned in nearly thirty years of active practice in gastroenterology are recorded in this book. The general principles involved in the investigation and treatment of digestive disorders are described in the light of the newer knowledge of nutrition.

MICROFILM COPYING

Army Medical Library
Washington, D.C.

Microfilm copying of the periodical literature of the Army Medical Library was begun by Bibliofilm Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 1936 and continued until September 1940 when an independent service under the auspices of the Friends of the Army Medical Library was established. Due to the expanding needs of microfilm copying for Regular Army and Federal establishments and other calls made upon it in the present emergency, additional equipment and enlarged facilities have been added at public expense. It has now become possible to substitute microfilm copying to a limited extent for interlibrary loans. Microfilms will be sent without charge in lieu of the loan of the books to all accredited medical librarians who prefer them or where books or journals cannot be loaned.

This service should result in a saving for the borrowing librarian since the responsibility for safekeeping and return of the books will be eliminated and no records will be required. The person receiving the microfilm will have no obligation for its return and may retain it for future use.

The total amount of work which can be done on this basis is of course limited by appropriations now available, hence there will be a limitation in the extent of the service, as to quantity. Orders for microfilm copying, except in particular cases, where bulk or commercial work is involved, will not ordinarily be accepted from individuals, but only through libraries, in the same manner as interlibrary loans.

The following postage should be included with each order for microfilm:

Articles totaling up to & including 100 p.	send.... 1½¢
" " " " " 400 p.	" .... 3¢
" " over 400 p.	send 4 1½¢ stamps... 6¢

Send orders to:
Photoduplication Service
Army Medical Library
Washington, D.C.

NOTE: The above offer refers only to extract copying from periodicals and does not cover making microfilm copies of entire volumes.

Most of the requests which have so far been received have not been accompanied by the postage mentioned above. Since this service replaces inter library loans which are not granted the franking privilege the microfilms can not be mailed out without the proper amount of postage.
